THE TALK OF THE CAMPUS

Commencement

ON MAY 29, Juniata's third war-time June commencement but her first under the presidency of Dr. Calvert N. Ellis, degrees will be awarded to approximately forty-two graduates, the smallest group of candidates in recent years for two reasons. One is that under the present accelerated program students may graduate at three times during the year; the other is the smaller total enrollment.

The roster of speakers for commencement week-end includes several exceptionally prominent names. Heading the list is William Henry Chamberlin, former foreign correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor and author of the recent The Russian Enigma: An Interpretation, who will deliver the commencement address on Monday morning. Prof. Charles B. Shaw, librarian at Swarthmore and nationally known as compiler of the Shaw basic list of books for college libraries, has been invited to speak at the Friends of the Library tea on Saturday afternoon. His topic will be Printers' Pleasantries.

Music will occupy a conspicuous place in the week-end activities. A senior recital by Miss Elaine Albert '44, soprano, assisted by Miss Betty Isenberg '45, pianist, will be presented on Friday evening. Replacing the Shakespearean production on Saturday evening will be a concert by the college orchestra and the a capella choir. Another senior recital, featuring William Wagner '44, organist, assisted by Harry Etter, tenor of Harrisburg, will be given on Sunday evening.

Other traditional events have their usual places on the commencement calendar. The Baccalaureate Sermon will be preached by President Calvert N. Ellis in the Stone Church on Sunday morning. The president's reception will be given on that afternoon, and the junior-senior step-sing will be held in the evening, followed by the Round Top vesper service. The candlelighting and mantle ceremony will take place after the concert on Saturday night.

Alumni Day

ALUMNI DAY this year will especially honor the only living member of the 65-year class, Dr. Gaius M. Brumbaugh '79, chairman of the Board of Trustees, and the golden anniversary class of '94.

This is the year for reunions of all classes ending in 4's and 9's.

The national president, Dr. Miles Murphy '23, will preside over the annual luncheon to be held in the dining room at noon. The main speaker will be Dr. Maynard Cassidy '19, now on a special civilian war assignment in Washington; also appearing on the program will be Lt. Comdr. Vernon W. H. Campbell, now stationed in New York.

May Day

MAY DAY, under the reign of Queen Betty Newcomer '44 and Prince Charming Theron Baldwin was observed with all its traditional festivity on the Juniata campus on May 13. Centering around a pageant of the four seasons, the entertainment took place on north campus. With the heralding of spring, winter, which had held sway, was routed. The arrival of spring brought the queen, who was crowned by Mrs. Calvert N. Ellis, a queen in her own right in 1926. The queen and her consort then reigned over the dances that symbolized the completion of the seasonal cycle, closing with autumn.

Leading the queen's court was Ruth Barnett '44, as maid of honor, and Martha Mitchell '44 and Gladys Todhunter '44. Attendants from the classes were Betty Isenberg and Jane Madden, juniors; Geraldine Baer and Ruth Blough, sophomores; Mary Louise Griffith and Bernadine Holden, freshmen.

May Queens of other years who returned to their one-time domains were Doris Wilson '43, Annabelle Mummert '42, Anne Smith '39, Ruby Lewis Dickerson '36, Pauline Swigart '35, Pauline Noffsinger Joliat '33, Blanche Zilius '32, Elizabeth Pinali Nora '30, Helena (Rohrbaugh) Jamison '29, Elizabeth Wertz Ellis '26, and Ruth Williams Replogle '17.

Founders Day

THE SIXTY-EIGHTH anniversary of the founding of Juniata College was celebrated in a Founders' Day program on April 17 when Dr. John H. Mentzer, '81ex, prominent physician of Ephrata, Pa., spoke on "Three Score and Five Years Ago." Dr. Galen B. Royer, '83, pronounced the invocation.

Boldly announcing that the "best times that the world ever knew are here now—and common property at that," Dr. Mentzer reviewed the attractions of the past. "If the dear dead days are beyond recall, that's all right with me. The houses were as drafty as a graveyard, as dark as a storeroom, and as unhealthy as a neglected cold. I'd rather have a new house any time and I'll take all the new gadgets to go with it. But somebody says, 'Can't you see the beauty of those old handwrought hinges? Don't you realize that sagging old front door was swung on by a Revolutionary general? What about those bent old beams over doors and windows, what about the wonderful wide board floors?' Well, what about them? I see and appreciate their beauty as well as the next one but I don't want to live with them because I also hear those squeaking hinges, I feel blasts of air from those door and window crevices, I see the accumulated dirt and germs between those floor boards, and I resent them all."

Admitting that the pessimist could find grave cause for despair in the trend of society today, Dr. Mentzer was confident that "there is light on the horizon that may serve to cheer and hearten. The greatest cause for encouragement is found in the fact that a growing number are awakening to the indisputable fact that material means have failed; that the only alternative is to be found in spiritual means of turning upward the downward dip in the morals of the nations. The great fact is growing even in the public consciousness that there is a divine power which is available to overcome the claims of evil, to turn on the light of peace and heal the wounds of humanity. When this number has increased sufficiently, the nations will cease to strive the one against the other, and peace will supplant war and pestilence."

Dr. Mentzer entered Juniata two years after its opening, but left before graduation to study medicine, which he began practicing in Ephrata in 1883. He is active in the affairs of his community, still serving as president of the Farmers' National Bank of Ephrata of which he was a founder in 1893.

Summer Term Faculty

THE SUMMER TERM at Juniata College has been announced for June 19 to August 26. The regular faculty will be augmented by Professor Ralph W. Schlosser, professor of English at Elizabethtown College, who will instruct in English in the first period of the Summer Term, and Professor Forrest W. Reed, associate professor of French and Spanish at Manchester College, who will instruct in modern languages during both periods.

Sports Review

ANOTHER evidence of the J. C. spirit in facing emergencies with verve is the fact that the tradition of turning out a good baseball team was not let down, in spite of the decrease in men's enrollment. The 1944 team has chalked up an enviable record of five wins and one defeat.

A roster of the outstanding players would include Hank Eisenhart, who is definitely big league pitching material; Fuzz Eisenhart, who has been turning in a sweet performance at first base; Pete Cassalia, who led in the batting average for more than half the season; Dick Wareham, who is proving valuable at a time when experience counts; and Luke Bowser, who batted out a home run that had much to do with securing the victory over Bucknell.

Three old opponents, Elizabethtown, Bucknell, and Pittsburgh, made up Juniata's six-game schedule. Both games with Elizabethtown were taken, with scores of 13-6 and 8-1, and the two with Bucknell were evenly divided. J.C. losing the first, 17-3, but taking the second, 5-2. The surprise upset of Pittsburgh came in the initial encounter with a score of 8-7, and in the second meeting, 4-2.

Selective Service and the College

DURING the present session sixty-five men have been enrolled in the college. These men have been in four classifications in relation to the draft: those under eighteen years of age; students completing training in science in accordance with quotas established by the Manpower Commission; pre-ministerial students; and men having 4F draft status. Under recent Selective Service rulings, no deferments for any man over eighteen will be granted, with the exception of those who are physically unfit for military service. In the face of this circumstance, the enrollment of men in the future will be limited to those under eighteen years of age and those physically unfit.

Bequests

JUNIATA COLLEGE recently received a bequest of $5,000 from the late Mrs. Ida R. Gray of Waynesboro, Pennsylvania, which is to be used to establish a scholarship to be known as the Jesse R. Oller Memorial Scholarship, the income each year to be used for the education of a boy or girl from Waynesboro. The late Jesse R. Oller was a student at Juniata College in the class of '79.

A second bequest of $3,500 was received from the estate of the late Mrs. Jennie S. Newcomer of Hagerstown, Maryland, a member of the class of '88. Mrs. Newcomer was a long-time member of the board of trustees.

The Juniata Planning Commission

"The colleges and universities cannot go unreconstructed in a world undergoing a general reconstruction."

PRESIDENT JAMES P. BAXTER
WILLIAMS COLLEGE

THROUGHOUT its history those closely associated with Juniata have felt that the college has had a distinctive mission in which it has rendered a great service. Today we believe it would be both unwise and short-sighted to proceed into the future on the assumption that Juniata can follow the pattern of the past and continue to make a significant contribution.

The future will bring new conditions that can not be met adequately by the current pattern or existing techniques. Thus, in order to perpetuate its heritage of educational service, Juniata will find it necessary to reinterpret its aims and goals. Just as in the past there have been changes, as when Juniata shifted from a teacher preparatory institution, the Brethren Normal School, to a liberal arts college, so in the future there will be changes.

In the face of this inevitability Juniata should plan for and direct the changes which come to it, rather than drift as the victim of them. In order to accomplish this the college will need to determine now what will constitute its unique contribution to education under different world conditions.

In such an endeavor Juniata seeks the assistance, vision, and wisdom of its alumni and faculty. In February the executive committee of the Board of Trustees authorized the establishment of the Juniata Planning Commission, a central group to function with the assistance of associated alumni and faculty committees, covering Juniata's fields of study and activity. These divisions are arts, business and industry, curriculum, home economics, music education, physical education, public relation, sciences, social life, and spiritual life.

sion and announced at Commencement on May 29. In addition, the chairman may appoint a faculty consultant.

Each committee is expected to review the pre-war policies and activities of its particular area, to investigate current personnel, equipment, and services of the college, and to predict for the future probable adjustments to altered conditions.

To accomplish these ends each committee will conduct a critical survey, analyzing such factors as faculty personnel, student opinion, alumni attitude, administrative responsibility, physical equipment, financial obligation, civic implication, and placement opportunities (in fields leading to employment).

The associated committees are expected to have their recommendations in the hands of the commission by Nov. 1, 1944, and early in 1945 the commission hopes to have ready a report for study and action by the Board of Trustees.

This is Juniata's effort to adjust to a changing world. There is nothing more sure than change, and it is hoped that the commission and the committees will be able to bring to the college imaginative judgments which will prepare Juniata to meet the needs of the coming generation.

Alumni are urged to contribute suggestions to the respective committees. The participation of the alumni in this program will be a measure of Juniata's service in the future.

The Alumni Spotlight

Don Beachley

Bill Flory

"EVERY TIME Don Beachley stands up, one anticipates something important and feels an urge to help accomplish the objective which he presents." In saying this, one alumnus spoke for many others, for Donovan Beachley is a man who has a reputation for promoting worthwhile enterprises. Since its inception in 1938, he has been alumni representative on the Juniata Development Committee, and recently he was appointed to the same office on the newly formed Juniata Planning Commission. Mr. Beachley is also a charter member of the One Hundred Club and an ardent supporter of "J" Club functions.

Needless to say, the Beachleys are an enthusiastic Juniata family, having, to date, a one hundred per cent attendance and extending into the third generation. His mother, Christie Reichard Beachley, and her brothers and sisters attended Juniata in their day; Donovan Beachley was a student at Juniata during the two-year period, 1917-1919; four years later he married Grace Rinehart, a member of his class; and now Don Jr. is a sophomore.

From Juniata, Donovan Beachley went to New York University for training in business administration, a preparation for his responsibilities in the family furniture manufacturing concern. In 1921 he became president of the Beachley-Reichard Furniture Company, established in 1887 by his grandfather, and, on his father's death in 1929, he assumed full charge of the business. Although he came into a well-established enterprise, under his direction it has developed to the place where Beachley's upholstered furniture has a coast-to-coast market. Today the trademark "Beachley's" has a prominent place in the well-known Chicago furniture mart and in outstanding stores of other large cities.

In Hagerstown, the city of his birth, Donovan Beachley has been active in civic and church affairs, as is attested by his positions as past president of the Kiwanis Club, past treasurer of the Hagerstown Y.M.C.A., vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, and treasurer of the Hagerstown Church of the Brethren.

WILLIAM R. FLORY is the sort of person for whom a brilliant future was predicted when he was a student at Juniata from 1917 to 1921, for it was evident that he had the ability to sell an idea. Anything short of a tremendous job is nothing for him. That is why he has settled down in a suite of offices in the State Street Building in Harrisburg to carry on his far-flung business enterprises.

When he left Juniata in 1921, Bill Flory became identified with the Hockenbury System, a corporation organized primarily for the purpose of financing hotels on a community campaign basis. From 1925 to 1931 he served as the treasurer and a director of the System. In 1931 he purchased controlling interest in the Grenoble Hotel Corporation, a business enterprise that operates hotels as lessees. Starting with two hotels and about fifty employees, the business now includes twenty-seven hotels, employing twelve hundred people and scattered over seven seaboard states and Ohio. Bill Flory, more than any other person, is responsible for this development.

Bill Flory is also interested in three subsidiary corporations as president of the Triangle Hotel Company of Pennsylvania, a director of the Radford Hotel Corporation of Radford, Va., and president of the Chambersburg Hotel Corporation. He is immediate past president of the Pennsylvania Hotel Association and a member of Hôtel Greeters.

His Juniata affiliations are exceptionally good, the most recent indication being his appointment as chairman of one of the Associated Committees of the Juniata Planning Commission. He is the immediate past president of the National Alumni Association, a position for which he was peculiarly fitted by virtue of his business experience and promotional work. In this position he served as an ex-officio member of the Juniata Development Committee. Previously, he had been president of the Central Pennsylvania Alumni Association. Bill Flory is one who has always maintained a vital interest in the "J" Club and other athletic activities.
